THE 'VEGGIE TRIKE'

Couple uses three wheels to connect consumers with local farm produce

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Collin Samaan is a 25-year old with a mild, friendly manner and a pair of dependable legs. His passions for bicycling and for fresh produce are married through "Veggie Trike," a new venture designed to bring the "Farm to Fork" movement right up to the curb at local neighborhoods.

What's on the back of the trike today?

"We have three different types of lettuce to form a buttery salad," he said, lifting the lid on a cooler during a break on Park Boulevard. "We have garlic-infused sea salt — you get garlic and all your minerals in a great quality of salt. We have apples from Bodhaine Ranch. And rainbow chard, kale and eggplant from 5th and C Farms."

That last selection refers to the pop-up urban farm now operating on a vacant lot at 5th and C streets in West Sacramento's Broderick neighborhood.

"We also sell raw unfiltered honey from To Bee Young Apiaries."

A family in an SUV pulled up alongside the Veggie Trike and asked if Samaan was selling eggs today. He replied that he wasn't — to stock them on the trike would require refrigeration — but he later explained that he is happy to make special deliveries of things like fresh eggs and frozen Apple Hill pies, upon request.

"I work with Abbott Organics," he added. "They are our 'home farm.' My wife, Aimee (Benner), is an employee there. I help there in the mornings."

Then he loads up for his route, which brings him to West Sacramento several days a week since he and Aimee started the venture in August.

The "cargo trike" has a West Sacramento pedigree, with a connection to local resident and businessman John Lucas.

"I work on bikes," said Samaan. "I met him and he invited me to learn how to weld with him. This trike was in his backyard. It had been built in China. We made quality out of this trike."

"I said, 'Let's make use of it — I need to help Anne on her farm, and get the amazing things like the organic salt out to people.'"

Samaan hopes to set up the trike as a travelling produce stand during designated "lunch hours" in West Sacramento and at other locations like "La Bonne Soup" in Sacramento. He's looking for possible locations, possibly near this city's community center and city hall.

And he's happy to take special orders for delivery.

"The coolest thing is that I would love to deliver anytime," he commented. "Give me a phone call or text or message."

To find him, or to place a special order, you can do an internet search for "Veggie Trike" or find it on Facebook.

Samaan said running the trike is a pretty economical, low-overhead operation:

"An apple an hour is all I need."

Woman dies following argument, gunshot

A West Sacramento woman is dead after an incident that started on Yolo Street.

The following information comes direct and unconfirmed from police reports; the News-Ledger was not immediately able to get additional details:

Sometime before 10:45 p.m. on Saturday, 40-year old Christina Lynn Munoz was in an argument at her home with 44-year old Leonardo Galvin.

"She produced a handgun and fired one round at him, missing," reported an officer.

Munoz then left the scene and was later found dead in Sacramento with a gunshot wound to the head.

Third graders at Westfield Village Elementary School intent on 'sport stacking' in the school auditorium Thursday morning (News-Ledger photo)

Several grades of kids at Westfield Village Elementary School took part in a "Sport Stacking" exercise last week. They worked in shifts in the school auditorium, for an event that was designed as an attempt at a Guinness world record. The maker of the specially-designed "Speed Stack" cups hoped to have 600,000 people across the world doing the activity at the same time. Last year, they had 555,932.

At the Poplar Avenue school, Principal Michele Giacomini led the program, timing the kids as they reconfigured their cup stacks for speed and precision.

The secret to getting a deal at the dealership

A few weeks ago I made the big mistake of going online to look into the possibility of buying myself a brand new car. Even though gas prices have been down lately, I felt it was beyond time to lower my carbon footprint and stop driving around a truck that gets ridiculously low gas mileage. Anyway, all I did was sign into this website that claimed to help people with such a task and before I knew it half of the auto dealers in the greater Sacramento Valley were sending me emails wanting my business. They all swore they had the best deals in town, but mostly they wanted more personal information from me, along with what kind of car I was looking for and the price range that would make me most likely to purchase one. Well, it took me days to get all of them to stop contacting me and when I mentioned all of this to a friend who had bought himself a new car not all that long ago, he quickly informed me that I had gone about things all wrong.

"Then just exactly how does a person go about buying a new car?" I asked with interest.

"Well, to begin with, all that online stuff is just a pain in the butt, unless you're going to buy a used car from a place like CarMax where they keep the hassle reasonable. But you never get a really good deal at a place like that anyway, just less grief while you are throwing away your hard-earned money. So if you really want a good deal on a new car, you have to do it the old fashioned way, by going to one of the dealerships and going to war with them."

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

"But I'm really not into going to war over the purchase of a new vehicle," I said. "Been there, done that, and it's never any fun."

"And they know that," my friend assured me, "which is why they make it such a miserable process. They know from experience that sooner or later most customers will just cave in and that's a big component of how they do business."

"So if you're not going to win the war," I asked, "why even show up for it?"

"Because you actually can win if you just know how to prepare for it. For instance, just go ahead and let them pass you through layer after layer of their salesmen until you finally get to the guy who can cut the deal. But in the process, don't let them get you talking about what payment you would like or anything else other than the actual price you are willing to pay for the vehicle. They will want to add this and that fee and mess with the percentage you are going to have to pay for the loan, but the bottom line is always the actual price of the car, and in that sense, you always have to keep your eye on the prize!"

"By the way," I said, "I am never able to figure out that interest percentage thing. For instance, the last time I bought a new car they gave me 2.9% interest on the loan, but when I actually finished paying everything off about five years later, I had really paid 10% on the loan."

"It's the way they compound the interest," explained my friend, "and financing is one of the best ways for a car dealership to make a nice profit off you. That is why they always want you to finance a new vehicle through them. So the more you can put down the better, including all the way up to paying for the car with cash, which can actually save you a ton of money in the long run. Anyway, getting back to going to war with a car dealership, here's how you go about it. You put up as best you can with all the salespeople you have to deal with before you finally get to the guy who can cut the deal and wait for him to say something like, 'Well, Mr. Fisher, you've got the price all the way down to us only making a few hundred dollars on this sale, and although my boss says I'm crazy for doing it, here is our absolute bottom number on what we can do for you. At this price, I'm more or less just giving this car away tonight, but it's late, everyone wants to go home, and we've all come to really like you.'"

"Then I sign on the bottom line, right?" I asked.

"Wrong! Then you get up and walk out!" "Walk out?"

"That's right, but not before being very polite and thanking everyone for going to

'So if you really want a good deal on a new car,' advised my friend, 'you have to do it the old fashioned way -- by going to one of the dealerships and going to war with them.'

so much trouble on your behalf."

"But then I will have spent hours going to war for nothing since I'm going home without my new car."

"Believe me, there will be a message on your phone before you even get all the way back home, offering you an even better deal if you will just come back and close the new deal that night."

"So then I go back and sign the new deal?"

"No! You go back alright, but after you have seen the new deal, you walk out again."

"I walk out twice?"

"At least twice, or until they stop calling you back with a better offer. Then you will know you have finally reached their bottom line and that you got the best deal you're going to get on your new car. Like my dad used to say, unless you are willing to walk away at least twice from a new car deal, you are simply asking to get ripped off. So, are you all ready now to go to war for that new gas-saving car of yours?"

"Actually," I said, having left all my war-playing days back in Vietnam where they belong, "I think I will just keep my old truck and try walking and riding my bicycle more often."

Governor visits Sikh temple

Governor Jerry Brown visited the Sacramento Sikh Temple in West Sacramento on Sunday, in an event coordinated with a State Assembly Resolution promoting awareness and appreciation of Sikh members of the community.

"We don't have to look the same," Brown told the morning congregation. "We don't have to think the same. We can all flourish in our diversity."

In turn, the temple honored Brown for supporting anti-discrimination policies and other measures for tolerance.

The governor presented Didar Singh Bains, the "Peach King" and agricultural businessman from Yuba City, with a plaque honoring his charity and financial contributions to the state economy.

Preserve the legacy.

Make sure West Sacramento is served by a first-class local newspaper and information source for decades to come.

A West Sacramento nonprofit group has tasked itself with creating a unique community-run news organization.

The new organization will use print media, radio and the internet to serve this community into the future. It will start from the traditions of pioneering West Sacramento journalist Julius Feher, the late founder of the News-Ledger.

Your gift may help create a vigorous new news hub for your city as well as support the teaching of journalism skills in local schools and college classrooms.

What can you do?

- ♦ Write a tax-deductible check to "West Sacramento Neighbors Fair, Inc."
- ♦ Maximize your tax deductions now by giving gifts of cash, bonds or appreciated assets such as stocks or real estate.
- ♦ Pursue tax advantages while protecting your security by using options like Charitable Gift Annuities, a Charitable Remainder Trust or Charitable Lead Trust.

"Once inside the store," reported an officer, "he picked up a wine bottle and held it upside down in a threatening manner while yelling at officers. Suspect was tased, but continued resisting. Suspect went to the floral department and threw flower pots to the ground. Suspect was pepper sprayed and tased a separate time, but continued resisting. Suspect was driver-stun tased and wrestled to the ground."

(This last technique involves pressing the Taser gun directly to the subject and discharging it without shooting its wired darts, causing "pain compliance.")

"Suspect continued violently resisting on the ground, but was eventually subdued with the carotid technique and handcuffed. During the encounter, suspect injured an officer's arm."

Nov. 14, 11:20 p.m.

A 60-year old man reported that two male suspects had assaulted him with a bat and pepper spray before fleeing the Madrone Avenue scene.

Police conducted a "high risk stop" and pulled over the driver, a 30-year old Sacramento man. The driver had a suspended license. He was driving with a "shaved" key.

The car's owner came to the scene and reiterated that the car had been stolen during the night several days earlier, the suspect did not have permission to have the car, and the victim hadn't given the suspect the key he was using. The driver went to jail.

Nov. 15, 1:30 p.m.

Police contacted a 37-year old man illegally camping on 4th Street. The man had two outstanding warrants, and was found with glass narcotics pipes. He was jailed.

Nov. 16, 2:20 p.m.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

"The Hundred Foot Journey" (PG-13) -- Madame Mallory (Helen Mirren) has dedicated herself to the painstaking perfection of the finest restaurants in France. Much to her chagrin, Papa Kadam (Om Puri) and his family, fresh from India, decide to start a new restaurant and a new life in the rundown building just across the street from Mallory's hallowed establishment. Hassan is heir to his father's Indian cooking legacy, but he's drawn by the allure of fine French cuisine, and Madame Mallory's sous chef (Charlotte Le Bon).

This uplifting Disney treat could have been too sweet, but comedic and dramatic talents of Mirren and Puri keep things interesting. Foodies will appreciate how much the camera and audio embrace the food at the heart of the story.

"Dawn of the Planet of the Apes" (PG-13) -- Mankind has hit hard times, what with the virus that wiped out half of the population and the uprising of enraged extra-intelligent apes. Surviving humans in the remains of San Francisco must figure out what to do about the nearby Ape

Jason Clarke in 'Dawn of the Planet of the Apes'

Army that's settled in the woods. Is there room for both of us? Even if the leaders try to keep things cool, how long can peace last?

Just like in the prequel, you'll find yourself sympathizing with the apes more than the people. Master motion-capture actor Andy Serkis (who gave awesome performances for King Kong and Gollum) reprises his role as Caesar, the conflicted leader of the apes. The action sequences are big and exhilarating, and the film's more personal moments also come through.

"As Above/So Below" (R) -- Beneath Paris lies the catacombs -- a miles-long twisted labyrinth walled with human remains. To one young researcher (Perdita Weeks) and her crew of tag-alongs, this sounds like a great place to go crawling around with cameras on their heads. They don't find the mythical stone they were looking for, but they do find a tunnel into their own personal nightmares. The setting is grim and dark enough, but this found-footage flick will leave you more nauseous than spooked.

"Kids for Cash" (PG-13) -- In Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, more than 3,000 children were incarcerated for minor misconduct, all while one judge raked in nearly $3 million in kickbacks from the companies running the detention centers. One girl was even sentenced to juvenile detention for making a fake MySpace account as a joke on her school's assistant principal. Each kid who entered Mark Ciavarella's courtroom was rail-

Whether you know Amy Poehler from "Parks and Recreation," "Saturday Night Live" or one of her movies, most of America has smiled at least once because of Poehler.

In her first book, Poehler weaves a story that is half-memoir, half-advice and all funny. Beginning with growing up in a small Massachusetts town, all the way through hosting awards shows, she builds on her own stories to tell how long, hard work lead rooded to the maximum possible sentence, because every kid he locked up put money in his account. This documentary examines the scandal, the impact it's had, and what it says about our justice system.

to stardom. Poehler also gives the more serious topics covered in the book, like divorce, the weight they deserve without feeling too heavy, while managing to weave in advice on topics as varied as body image, the Mommy Wars and managing your career.

The best chapter of the book, one that will stay with you long after you're done reading, is about a skit Poehler performed on "SNL" where she inadvertently made fun of a disabled woman. The repercussions of the incident are fascinating. Sharing with the reader email exchange

The stories veer into drugs, sex and other adult content on occasion, but overall the clear takeaway of the book is: work hard and be nice.

If you want inspiration about how hard work can lead to success, with laughs and special celebrity and comedy references thrown in, this is your read.

Citrus Is Part of Holiday Tradition

When most people think of fall, lemonade does not come to mind -- or key lime pie, or even orange juice or fresh grapefruits. But the truth of nature is that, although all citrus plants fruit at slightly different times, late fall is the beginning of citrus season. Many varieties of citrus, having traveled hundreds or even thousands miles from their snowbird homes, are showing up in grocery stores across the country.

Citrus flavors appear in many traditional foods of the season. The candied citrus in fruit cakes, orange juice in glazed carrots and the lemon zest and peel in baked goods have become the ubiquitous flavors of fall and winter. Because the flavor of citrus is so refreshing, it's no surprise that we also adore it when times are hot. If you want to taste the very best citrus of the season, find the heaviest, sweetest orange imaginable, or the sweet peel and lip-puckering center of a kumquat, or the surprisingly nectar-like fruit of a beautiful pink grapefruit.

Citrus trees of every kind are a subtropical plant, and prone to freezing in the winter months. Many home gardeners in every state try their luck at growing citrus, usually dwarf varieties that they can protect from frost. However, commercially, citrus in the United States is grown mainly in California and Florida, where the weather is to its liking.

In both states, citrus farming began in the 1800s. In California, during the Gold Rush of 1849 there was a huge demand for oranges that were used to combat scurvy, which is a vitamin C deficiency. In Florida, the citrus industry is worth billions of dollars to the state, where it produces more oranges than anyplace else in the world. But long before commercial farming of oranges, lemons and the almost countless other varieties of citrus, citrus trees were growing in the Americas in the 1500s, brought in by the Spaniards. Citrus of all kinds is high in vitamin C, and it is also a good source of other essential nutrients such as potassium, folate, calcium and phosphorus. Citrus is considered a nutrient-dense food and often is prescribed by doctors and dietitians for the prevention and treatment of many illnesses and disorders.

Even though most of us have a favorite lemon- or orange-infused dish, citrus season is the time to try a new variety in a new way. The wonderful juice of almost any citrus fruit can replace the vinegar in a salad dressing, while the plump, juicy flesh itself can be the focal point of a salad or dessert. Surprise your family during this holiday season and put citrus on the menu. It will become a tradition.

SPICED TURKEY CUTLETS WITH GRAPEFRUIT RELISH

Honey-Grapefruit Relish
3 large seedless grapefruit
1 avocado, peeled, pitted and diced
1/4 cup thinly sliced red onion
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
1 tablespoon honey or agave syrup
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper

Spice Rub for Turkey or Chicken
1/4 cup mild chili powder

2 tablespoons ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 1/2 pounds turkey cutlets (about 1/4 inch thick) or 4 thin, boneless, skinless chicken breasts
Cooking oil spray
3 tablespoons canola oil

1. Preheat oven to 400 F.
2. Using a sharp knife, remove skin and white pith from grapefruit and discard. Cut grapefruit segments from the surrounding membrane, letting them drop into a medium-size bowl. Squeeze juice of the remaining flesh of grapefruit membrane into the bowl. Add avocados, onions, cilantro, honey, salt and black pepper. Toss well to combine; set aside.
3. Stir together chili powder, cumin, cloves, ginger, cinnamon, salt and cayenne in a shallow dish. Lightly spray both sides of the meat with cooking oil spray. Dredge the cutlets or breasts in spice mixture, shaking off excess.
4. Heat oil in a large ovenproof skillet over medium-high heat. Add cutlets or breasts and cook, shaking the pan, until they begin to brown on the outside, about 1 to 2 minutes. Turn the meat over and transfer skillet to the oven. Bake until no longer pink in the center, 6 to 8 minutes.
5. Arrange meat on a platter or individual plates and spoon avocado-grapefruit relish on top. 6 servings.

A cartoon illustration by Keras. A massive whale, resembling Moby Dick, is the central figure, towering over a city street. It has a small propeller on its side and a striped awning over a 'Cafe' sign. In the background, there are city buildings, a fire hydrant, and a person walking. In the foreground, two men in trench coats and hats are talking. One man says in a speech bubble: "EVER SINCE SPIELBERG BOUGHT THE RIGHTS TO THE BOOK HE ONLY ANSWERS TO THE NAME 'MOBY RICHARD.'" The signature 'KERAS' is in the bottom right corner.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF
Siu Ying Wong aka Siu Y. Wong

CASE NUMBER PB14-187
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Siu Ying Wong aka Siu Y. Wong:

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Millie Bun in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The Petition for Probate requests that Millie Bun be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: Dec. 11, 2014, at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 2, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court St., Woodland CA 95695, Probate Court.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk. Petitioner: Millie Bun 7020 Rawley Way Elk Grove CA 95757 (916) 501-5236

GUEST COMMENTARY:

The benefits of breastfeeding

By Lizeth Betancourt
Yolo County International Board-
Certified Lactation Consultant

Breastfeeding is one of the most natural and beneficial acts a mother can do for her child. In Yolo County, breastfeeding is supported year round as evidenced by California Department of Public Health data showing 85% of babies born to Yolo County mothers are breastfed in the hospital. The state rate is 65%.

"Research shows babies who receive only breast milk for the first six months are less likely to develop a wide range of chronic and acute diseases, including ear infections, diarrheal diseases, asthma, obesity and respiratory illnesses," said

Yolo County Health Officer Constance Caldwell, M.D. "Mothers also benefit from breastfeeding with a decreased risk for breast and ovarian cancers."

Yolo County, as well as medical organizations such as the World Health Organization and the American Academy of Pediatrics, strongly recommend babies exclusively breastfeed for the first six months, and continue to breastfeed in combination with complementary foods until at least one year of age to achieve optimal health.

Breastfeeding doesn't always happen easily for everyone. Starting out right helps to ensure breastfeeding is a pleasant experience for both mother and baby. If baby has difficulties latching-on or sucking, or has other health problems that complicate breastfeeding, community resources, including assistance from a lactation consultant, can help resolve these issues and ensure that new mothers feel supported.

Yolo County supports and encourages breastfeeding in a number of ways, starting with the Breastfeeding Coalition of Yolo County. Consisting of representatives from hospitals, community organizations and mothers, the coalition promotes and supports breastfeeding and the use of human milk through education, outreach and advocacy.

Yolo County offers clients of the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program comprehensive support and peer counselors, lactation educators and an International Board-Certified Lactation Consultant. Additionally, WIC offers prenatal and postpartum breastfeeding education, guidance on breast milk expression and a breast pump service for eligible participants.

Another Yolo County resource is the Breastfeeding Warm Line, 1-800-663-8685, for mothers to call after leaving the hospital with questions or concerns about breastfeeding. The goal of the warm line is to support breastfeeding families by linking them to resources in the community.

Breastfeeding services are also available through CommuniCare Health Centers, Sutter Davis Hospital, Woodland Memorial Hospital (Dignity Health), Woodland Healthcare and Winters Healthcare Foundation. Community support can be found in Davis at Mother & Baby Source, La Leche League of Davis and the Breastfeeding Support Program for UC Davis students, staff and faculty.

Women with infants and toddlers are the fastest growing segment of the U.S. workforce. Employers that make it easy for mothers to continue breastfeeding after returning to work have enjoyed positive results, including lower absenteeism, higher productivity, company loyalty and lower healthcare costs. Required by California state law since 2002, and included in the recent healthcare reform bill, lactation accommodation includes providing employees with reasonable break time and a private place (other than a restroom) to express milk.

Yolo County supports creation of a positive, accepting attitude toward working women and breastfeeding, and has had an employee lactation accommodation policy in place since 2005. The Yolo County Health Services Department is also committed to supporting breastfeeding in the community. For more information, call the Yolo County Breastfeeding Coordinator at (530) 666-8427.

- Don't share cups, straws or anything that goes in the mouth

- Cover nose and mouth when you cough and sneeze, and promptly discard used facial tissues

CLIMATE CHANGE THREATENS ALL AMERICANS

WE MUST WORK TOGETHER ON AN AMERICAN STRATEGY

Climate change is a national security issue. The longer we wait to act, the harder it will be to mitigate and respond to its impacts. U.S. leadership alone will not guarantee global cooperation. But if we fail to take action now, we will have little hope of influencing other countries to reduce their own contributions to climate change, or of forging a coordinated international response.

Here at home, we must cut our own carbon emissions, reduce our reliance on foreign oil, and develop and deploy clean, renewable energy sources that will generate economic growth. We must also help less developed countries adapt to the realities and consequences of a drastically changed climate. Doing so now will help avoid humanitarian disasters and political instability in the future that could ultimately threaten the security of the U.S. and our allies. But most importantly, we must transcend the political issues that divide us — by party and by region — to devise a unified American strategy that can endure and succeed.

We, the undersigned Republicans and Democrats, believe Congress working closely with the Administration must develop a clear, comprehensive, realistic and broadly bipartisan plan to address our role in the climate change crisis. WE MUST LEAD.

Two RCHS athletes sign college 'letters of intent'

Two student-athletes from River City high School signed their 'letters of intent' to commit to a particular college and its sports program in a ceremony on campus on Friday.

Ashlend Rodriguez will attend the University of West Alabama to play softball next fall. Aliyah Brantley will go to Menlo College to play basketball.

Both students have a GPA of 3.0 or higher at River City, and each has played for the school varsity-level team since her freshman year.

By Don Schatzel

River City High School Girls Tennis this season started out with a lot of questions. They were in a new league, with a new format of a separate girls tennis season, and new opponents. As usual, River City Tennis answered the questions in fabulous style, winning the Tri County Conference Championship by being undefeated in all league matches.

Players Julia Quenga, Jessica Ngo, Beatrice Bui, Jasmine Benafghoul, Jessie Olsen, Charlie Blevins Kay Rybikov, Shabnam Hassan, Jessica Maltez, Karen Lee, Mallory Snarr, Teresa Huynh, Aleia Haith were all to take their Varsity streak of success into the tough Division III Sac-Joaquin team championships.

Because they were undefeated in league play, River City had a first round bye and their quarterfinal opponent was a fired-up Manteca team fresh off an opening round win. River City had to shake off some dust from the layoff and 6 singles and 3 doubles teams competed with River City, winning the minimum required matches in the best of 9 format, 5-4.

The toughest was yet to come as River City had to travel to Los Banos to face the Tigers two and a half hours away. Number 1 single Julia Quenga, and number 2 single Beatrice Bui each played a grueling two hour and 45 minute match and Jasmine Benafghoul had a three hour match.

River City played the best tennis of the year in a Sac-Joaquin semi final victory, 7 wins 1 loss 1 draw as one match was called early due to darkness. The ride home from Los Banos was a happy one. River City girls was the first girls team to qualify for the Section Finals.

Two days later the championship match was held at River City and Central Catholic from Modesto came calling. The match started out with flying blue and gold colors, as almost all River City competitors raced out to first set wins in the best of three sets individual matches.

Central Catholic proved they were not a fluke at the finals' level, as their strength and desire

Let PG&E re-light your household pilot lights

With winter nearing and nighttime temperatures beginning to cool, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) is encouraging customers to call 1-800-PGE-5000 now to schedule an appointment to turn on furnace pilot lights for winter and check natural gas appliances for safety and efficiency.

"We want every family that we serve to be safe and warm this winter," said Laurie Giammona, PG&E's chief customer officer. "By planning ahead and scheduling to have pilot lights turned on now, families can heat their homes as soon as colder temperatures arrive."

Customers who wait until the weather turns cold to call may have to wait several days before a service representative can get to their homes. PG&E gas service professionals re-light appliance pilots at no extra cost in order to ensure safe, reliable heating. In addition to relighting pilot lights, PG&E service representatives can also perform a check of all natural gas appliances in a customer's home, to make sure they are operating safely and efficiently.

Reducing energy use is still one of the most effective ways for customers to lower their utility bill. Damaged or poorly functioning natural gas equipment can not only waste money by leaking or burning gas inefficiently, but can also produce carbon monoxide if not adjusted properly. The same skilled men and women at PG&E who respond to reports of gas leaks also perform these helpful utility's appliance safety inspections.

Some of the appliances that PG&E inspects include:

- Furnaces and water heaters
- Ovens and ranges
- Clothes driers
- Gas fireplaces

PG&E customers interested in scheduling a pilot relight and natural gas appliance inspection can request an appointment on our website (pge.com/myenergy) or they can call and speak to a live representative 24 hours a day at 1-800-PGE-5000. There are a number of other measures PG&E customers can take advantage of to manage their natural gas bills this winter.
